EAST SIDE WEEKLY December 14, 2026 · Practice article: the newspaper, people, and prices are made up

Your Grocery Bill: What Costs More This Year?

Words to know

grocery bill = what you pay for food
a dozen = 12
economist = an expert on money and the economy
shopper = a person who shops
rise = go up
paycheck = the money you get for your work

1 Shoppers in East Side are talking about prices. "My grocery bill is bigger than last year," says Maria Lopes, a mother of three. "I buy the same food, but I spend more."

2 The East Side Weekly checked prices at three local stores in December 2025 and December 2026. Some foods are more expensive now. Coffee had the biggest change. A pound of coffee costs $1.50 more than last year.

3 Eggs are also more expensive. A dozen eggs costs $4.20 now. Last year, it was $3.50. But not everything costs more. Milk is a little cheaper than last year, and chicken is the same price.

4 Why do prices change? When prices rise for a long time, economists call it inflation. Weather, gas prices, and wages can all change food prices. "When coffee farms have a bad year, there is less coffee, so it is more expensive," says a local store owner.

5 Wages matter too. If prices go up faster than wages, families can buy less with their paychecks. Maria has a plan. "I compare unit prices, and I buy rice and beans in bulk. It's the cheapest way to feed my family."

STATION 3: READ News: grocery prices · with your group

4. Which food is the same price? _____
5. ★ Is bread cheaper or more expensive now? By how much?

6. ★ Why can coffee get more expensive? (¶4)

7. ★ What does Maria do to save money? (¶5)

Part B: Find the grammar

Find these in the article. Write the word.

-er than	more … than	the -est	a little / the same

1. What costs more now than last year for you?
2. What is the cheapest way to eat well? "The cheapest way is …"
